

BRUSSELS dispatches on this page today tell of momentous events.

Ike Eisenhower has been formally accepted by the 12 Atlantic Pact nations as the defense chief of Europe and early next year will begin formation of an international army to ward off any invasion that may threaten the Western world from Asia.

This international army may total 55 to 60 divisions which, with air and sea units, will mean about a million men under arms in Europe.

The Atlantic Pact nations in their conference at Brussels propose that 150,000 of these fighting men will be Germans, divided into some 25 "combat teams." What that means no one is quite sure — and the Germans themselves don't like it.

Important political elements in Western Germany, which is still occupied by the British, French and ourselves, say their country won't re-arm unless given equal rank with the other Atlantic Pact powers — permitting German troops to maneuver as separate German armies, not intermixed with the troops of other nations.

This could be a fatal stumbling block, for the French fear a re-armed Germany whose troops would be responsible to a German government rather than the Allied command — yet Europe has to have German manpower to be reasonably sure of beating off a Russian attack.

A partial answer has been given the German problem, however. The Atlantic Pact group announces Germany will be permitted to revive her air force. This concession may bring about agreement. It is a very great concession — coming from the Allies, who have good reason to know how effective a German air force can be.

We just want to be sure it fights for — not against — us.

5 Guard Air Units to Be Called Feb. 1

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — The air force announced today it will call five air national guard groups and a number of supporting units, into federal service on Feb. 1.

A brief, statement said: "designation of the units or of the bases at which they will be assigned can not be announced because of security considerations."

Most national guard groups are fighter organizations, with about 75 planes to a group. aaaaaaa.g at-aneet Aapaaaaa

Five guard groups already have been brought into federal service. They were called up in October. Today's announcement followed closely on the decision of the defense department to call in two more national guard ground divisions to be added to the four already in service. That decision was announced Saturday.

Conference of Government, Industry Next

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — Within 10 days after Pearl Harbor President Roosevelt called a White House conference of industry and labor leaders.

He told them that to keep this country from ruinous inflation in the war program, prices and wages would be held down and he'd set up agencies to handle labor-management problems to be fair to both.

In return, both management and labor gave a pledge: Labor said there'd be no strikes in the war; management said there'd be no lockout of workers.

Thereafter the office of price control sat on prices and the war labor board laid down rules on who, and under what circumstances, could get a wage increase. Generally, it set a limit on wage increases.

Now the government has a price control office and a wage stabilization office — both part of the economic stabilization administration — to control prices and wages.

But there has been no White House conference of industry and labor and no pledges have been given.

But the first problem of prices and wages already is in the government's lap. This is the auto industry. Last week the biggest auto-makers announced they were going to raise prices on their new cars. Dr. Alan Valentine, head of ESA, asked them not to. They said they had to because of a rise in the costs of labor and materials, but particularly steel and government controlled synthetic rubber. The government raised the rubber price Dec. 6.

But ESA cracked down and Saturday ordered them to roll back the prices to where they were Dec. 1 and keep them there until March while ESA has a chance to study the whole price-wage control problem.

Actually, ESA doesn't have a staff large enough to put price and wage controls on the rest of the country at this time and make them work.

Still, being ordered—not asked—to keep down prices and wages, has visibly made the auto makers unhappy. And the auto workers, too. So the government, through its wage stabilization board, has called a conference tomorrow between representatives of the auto industry and the CIO Auto Workers union.

Out of this conference may come some solution, or some part of a solution, on the wage-price problem. It's not something which can be settled by one conference, as you can remember from World War II days when the problems of wages and prices was unending.

But here at the very start of the problem now the government is confronted with an unusual situation, as you'll see in a second.

The law which congress passed in September, giving the government power to hold down prices and wages, says that whenever prices in any industry — right now in the auto industry — are frozen, wages must be held down, too.

Now in some other industry the problem might be comparatively simple, even when there's a union involved. For if the company's prices were held down the workers wouldn't have any special arrangement for getting wages up.

It's different in the auto industry. The auto workers union has contracts with the biggest companies that calls for this:

"When living costs go up 1.14 per cent, the workers must be given an increase of 1 cent an hour in pay. It's a five-year contract. About 1,000,000 workers are covered by this kind of agreement."

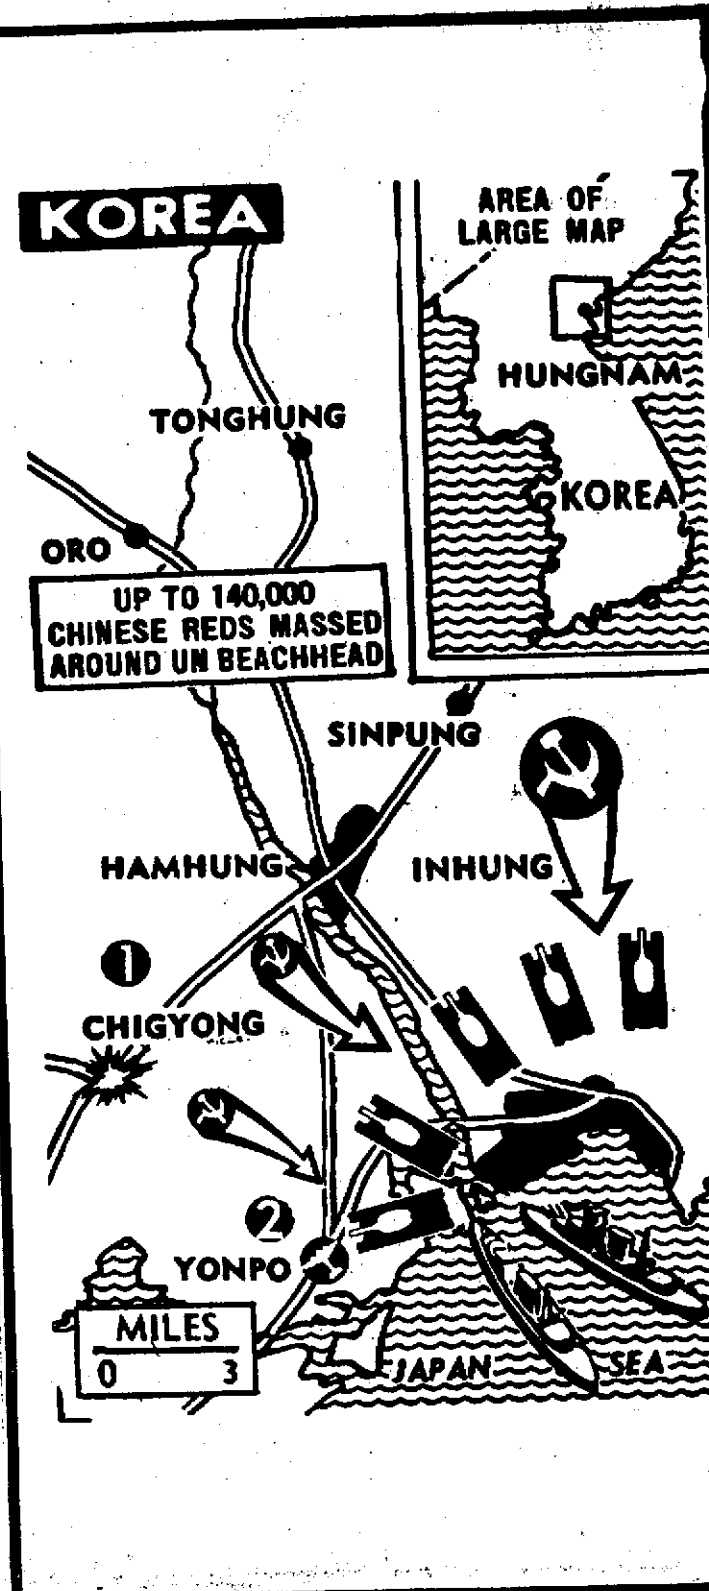

But now, with the automakers' prices frozen, suppose living costs go up. Is it fair to the workers to deprive them of this 1-cent an hour more, due to higher living costs?

And is it fair to the automakers to hold down their prices if most of the rest of the country isn't under government orders to hold down prices and then the costs of materials go up?

It's not an easy problem for ESA. Walter Reuther, head of the auto workers union, says he'll fight any attempt to freeze wages in the auto industry. General Motors, the largest auto maker, said the price freeze on cars placed "in jeopardy" the five-year wage agreement with the auto workers.

At this point the government since its unable to impose wider price and wage controls instead of singling out one industry is paying the penalty for not being even near ready to do a real job of controlling prices and wages, although the problem has been talked about for almost six months.

Republicans Say Congress Must Approve Any Plans to Send More Troops to Europe

By JACK BELL

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — Republican leaders demanded today that congress pass on any major policy commitments made by Secretary of State Acheson at the Brussels conference before they become final.

Senators Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska said in separate interviews they do not question Acheson's authority to negotiate with other North Atlantic powers but believe congress should be consulted about garrisoning Western

Slow Retreat Underway at Korean Beach

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, Dec. 19 — (P) — Allied naval, air and ground forces slammed tons of steel today at Chinese and Korean Reds pressing down on the slim Hungnam beachhead in northeast Korea.

The allies slowly were giving ground with their backs to the sea.

A delayed field dispatch said the U. S. air force abandoned Yonpo airfield, Hungnam's major airport, Sunday. The dispatch had been withheld for security reasons. Army engineers destroyed supplies and disabled aircraft that had to be left.

North Korean communist troops showed their biggest strength yet around the beachhead.

A U. S. 10th corps intelligence officer said advance combat elements of three wholly reorganized Red Korean divisions had replaced the Chinese communists on the right flanks of the beachhead. He estimated the force at 7,000 to 8,000 men.

Allied firepower was credited with blasting communist attempts to mount a major attack against the beachhead.

"Prisoners say they are trying to hit us in force but every time the officers get men massed for an attack our artillery scatters them," said Col. William Quinn, Crisfield, Md.

"They just can't get started," Refugee reports said Chinese Reds were looting abandoned Hamhung, big northeast Korea industrial city six miles inland from Hungnam. Terrified Korean civilians were reported streaming north and south from the looted city.

The Red Korean buildup on the east flank brought determined punches against that section of the Allied line. A field dispatch said the Reds maybe trying to capture high ground looking down on Hungnam's busy port.

Artillery fire smashed one such attack and killed an estimated 200 Korean Reds in 20 minutes.

Allied warships slipping through the sea of Japan's icy waters off Hungnam port pounded 37 concentrations of Chinese and Korean communists. The big naval guns dispersed one column of attacking Reds with heavy casualties.

Navy and marine forces roared off decks of carrier task force 77 and an escort carrier fleet in stinging blows against the Reds.

The seaborne airmen winged inland as far as 60 miles, bombing,

Here's an Exciting Chapter From Korea — How Air Force Relieved Ambushed Patrol

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

(For Hal Boyle)

With U. S. Seventh Regiment, Korea — (P) — It was late in November. The Allies still were on the offensive in northwest Korea. A small reconnaissance patrol, 20 men in seven jeeps, drove cautiously toward the small village.

The patrol, under Lt. Richard Talbert of Saranac Lake, N. Y., had seen no enemy during the scouting that took them through the city of Ipsok and a mile beyond.

In the small village beyond Ipsok, Talbert halted the patrol and got out of the lead jeep to question civilians. And it was then that hundreds of Chinese entrenched on nearby hills opened up.

The first flare of gunfire destroyed Talbert's jeep. The Reds directed a hail of mortar fire machinegun and small arms bullets at the patrol, but the Americans held them off for 30 minutes. Talbert's men got six jeeps out of the line of fire and started back down the road.

"We could never have done that except for two men on machineguns," Talbert recalled. "One was Sgt. Takeo Ono of Honolulu. The other was a sergeant who was wounded and taken prisoner. I've recommended both for silver stars."

The sergeant's name was withheld.

During the first part of the patrol's retreat, the road ran parallel to Red positions in the flanking hills. Talbert, a radio operator, an interpreter and an engineer from an army engineer company remained in the village.

A shell hit the gasoline tank of the rear jeep and the two men abandoned it. Then the Chinese swarmed down the hillside. One of the two — a corporal — turned around and saw that his companion was surrendering to two Chinese.

The corporal shot one of the Chinese through the head with a pistol. The other Chinese was so excited that the other American grabbed up his gun and shot him.

Intense gunfire forced two men in another of the six jeeps to dive into a ditch. Both were taken prisoner.

Eisenhower Takes Command in Europe; Airforce for Reich

150,000 Men Expected of the Germans

Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 19 — (P) — The 12 Atlantic alliance nations announced today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will begin early in 1951 to organize an international army to keep the peace in Europe.

A communique issued at the end of a two day conference said the Atlantic pact chiefs also agreed on plans for German participation in "an integrated force under a centralized command."

The 12 nations earlier had approved the appointment of Gen. Eisenhower as the supreme commander for the international force.

The man who led the Western allied forces to victory in World War II was named by President Truman at the request of the foreign and defense ministers of the 12 pact nations, now meeting here to organize the force.

Along with the formal approval of Eisenhower, who had been suggested as the leader by practical everyone connected with the formation of Europe's defenses, the pact members met today to approve finally a series of tough decisions creating a new international army, to include German ground and air units.

The program, adopted yesterday in defiance against threats from Russia that rearming Germany would violate existing treaties, calls for an international force of 55 to 60 divisions, plus air and sea arms. It aims at a total force of 1,000,000 men by the end of 1953.

The program provides also that the West German republic will contribute some 25 combat units of 6,000 ground troops each to this Western bulwark against Soviet aggression in Europe.

In return, the Bonn government would be given political and economic concessions by the occupying powers — though not full independence immediately.

The informants would not disclose the precise size of the tactical air force envisaged for the

Given 30 Years for Robbing of Missouri Bank

Carruthersville, Mo., Dec. 19 — (P) — Alvie Leonard Carroll, 25, has been sentenced to a total of 30 years imprisonment in connection with the robbery of the Farmers bank of Braggadocio, Mo., Nov. 23.

He pleaded guilty yesterday and was sentenced by circuit Judge Louis Schultz to 25 years for armed robbery and five years for kidnapping, the sentences to run consecutively.

Carroll was arrested within a quarter hour after the bank was robbed of $1,700. The kidnapping charge grew out of the abduction of the bank president, E. C. Speer.

Excess Profits Tax to Pass This Week

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — Senate leaders set the stage today for swift approval of a multi-billion dollar excess profits tax bill.

Optimists among them said they will still have to have the measure on its way to the White House before tonight Saturday. Others thought final approval may have to wait until after a brief recess planned over Christmas.

The senate finance committee approved the bill last night, announcing plans to call up the measure for debate tomorrow.

Chairman George D. Acheson predicted the senate would pass it Thursday, by a top heavy majority. But he indicated he sees only an outside chance of getting the senate to agree on revised terms of the complete measure by the Saturday deadline.

Congress has been aiming for a Christmas recess to start Friday. George said it should go through with these plans unless final tax assignment on Saturday can be guaranteed.

Tax experts on his staff said an accurate estimate of probable revenues from the bill is impossible now, although they expect it will produce well more than $3,000,000,000 in its first year. George agreed. He said it probably would take a year for the measure to start bringing in the $4,000,000,000 yearly President Truman has requested.

The bill proposes a heavy new tax on corporation earnings assumed to have resulted directly or indirectly from the government's big defense spending program. It also will boost the existing corporation surtax rate of about 100,000 corporations from 20 per cent to a new level of 22 per cent.

For some affected taxpayers all of the new tax load will be retroactive to last July 1. For the rest, only the excess profits levy — which hits 70,000 corporations — will be retroactive.

The committee, before approving the bill last night, sliced more millions off its anticipated yield d by softening terms of both proposed tax hikes. It made no estimate of these changes in dollars.

The excess profits tax bill's new amendments provide more liberal exemption credits for firms which, after prolonged periods of depression, finally have hit a period of prosperity.

All-Out U. S. Mobilization May Be Near

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — President Truman's request for additional wartime powers was greeted in some quarters today as a sign that the machinery is in motion for all-out mobilization.

The President asked congress yesterday to approve legislation that would let him juggle government bureaus and set up emergency agencies, as well as permit re-negotiation of defense contracts.

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.), a member of the armed services committee, told reporters he thinks this is only a step toward the full mobilization of resources he said is necessary to fight off Communist aggression.

However, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) predicted the senate judiciary committee will move cautiously in giving the President authority to reorganize agencies.

McCarran indicated the pro-

Atlantic Pact Nations Okeh U. S. General

Washington, Dec. 19 — (P) — Dwight D. Eisenhower was named today to be commander of an integrated pean defense force against Communism.

President Truman made the pointment, acting on the request of the North Atlantic pact nations. An American is chosen to supreme command and the suggestion that Eisenhower man.

Thus the man who led the force of Allied troops to victory in Europe during World War II is named today to lead the possible Communist aggression the continent.

It had been a common suggestion for months that "Ike" has a tremendous personal popularity in Europe — would be the command as soon as the of the United defense force advanced to the point of the end of the post-beatdown.

The formal appointment was closed in an exchange of letters between President Truman and Gen. Eisenhower.

They will have to take Russia's possible reactions into account. Last month the Soviets asked for Big Four talks on Germany's future — an invitation the Western allies are expected to accept. The Russians also have warned they would not tolerate organized revival of German militarism.
They also have to handle the Germans carefully. Many Germans say they are against any form of rearmament. The Bonn government, however, is believed ready to play ball with the West. If it can get the most out of any bargain that may be struck.

Taft, who heads the senate Republican policy committee, told a reporter that while the North Atlantic pact promises American military assistance to Western European nations, the amount of that assistance is a question congress should pass on.

Wherry said any agreements Acheson makes which even approach the border line of treaty-making ought to be checked up to

It seems to me that a brand new policy is involved in any commitment of American foot soldiers to European service," he said. This is above and beyond the police powers of the United Nations and for the good of the other countries involved, as well as our own, Acheson should bring the matter to congress.

rocketing and machine gunning communist troop concentrations. They claimed they killed or wounded 800 Reds.

Tokyo, Dec. 18 — (AP) — United Nations naval, air and ground fire-power today held off persisting Red attacks on the Allied Hungnam port beachhead in northeast Korea.

Allied warships slammed at 37 concentrations of Chinese and North Korean Communists swarming against the receding Allied shoreline strip.

Booming out an answer to one distress call, the naval big guns blasted and dispersed a column of attacking Reds with heavy casualties claimed.

Navy and marine airmen pounded 22 Red troop concentrations within a 60 mile radius of Hungnam. They claimed they killed or wounded 800 Communists.

A total of 25,000 Reds were pressing against the Allied lines on the coastal plain and another 75,000 or more were reported swarming down from the mountains.

On the ground, Third division troops fighting out of frozen fox holes snarled four Communist attacks Monday night and before daylight Tuesday.

A 10th corps spokesman said the Reds attacked in darkness with all most fanatical fury.

posed legislation may have to wait until the new congress meets next month.

The government continued to move gradually with the broad legislation it already has.

The economic stabilization agency called in meat industry representatives yesterday but it said in a statement the session was "not to be taken as an indication of any imminent (price) controls on meats." The agency said Price Administrator Michael V. Disalle held only exploratory talks with officials of five packing firms, none of them the giants of the industry.

ESA said they explored problems which "would be probable if controls are found to be necessary in the future."

General Motors, meanwhile, told federal officials it is sending in an alternate proposal to the new car ceilings which ESA imposed on the whole auto industry Saturday night.

ESA gave out no details, but it was assumed that GM sought some modification in the rollback to Dec. 1 prices which the government ordered. That action cancelled out price hikes which had been announced by GM, Ford, Chrysler and Nash.

GM yesterday froze the sale of all 1951 model Chevrolets, Pontiacs and Cadillacs which dealers receive today or hereafter. It blamed the price rollback, which it called the price rollback, which it called discriminatory.

ESA's wage stabilization board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, will meet tomorrow with auto industry management and union officials to discuss wages. Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, served advance notice he will fight any attempt to freeze industry wages.

Case to Forbid Market Fishing in Little River

Little Rock, Dec. 19 — (AP) — A case for closing of Little River to market fishing was filed by the Arkansas game and fish commission yesterday.

The commission said it found no evidence that game fish were being destroyed by commercial fishing.

The commission also discussed the proposed 1,000-acre White Oak lake on White Oak creek near Chidester (Ouachita county.) The lake would be a public fishing site. Final engineering estimates placed the cost at between $158,000 and $217,000. Original estimates had been around $100,000. The commission took no final action.

The name "clerk" which is used today to describe a salesman in a store or a minor office functionary originally meant a man who had taken religious orders.

Death of Patel, the Deputy Prime Minister of India, Is Blow to Peace in Asia

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The comparatively new government of India, still struggling with the problems of young statehood, has been dealt a hard blow in the death of Sardar Patel, deputy prime minister and wheel-horse of the regime.

The loss is particularly serious because it comes at a time when Asia is seething with a deep shadow across India and her sister state of Pakistan. It is a dangerous moment when the Indian peninsula needs all the leadership it can muster.

Significant of the force of this blow is the fact that Maharajah Jam Sahab of Navangar, one of the Indian delegates to the United Nations and another of the strong men of the Indian government, is rushing back to New Delhi from Lake Success. Nehru apparently is calling in his captains for consultation.

Patel was a particularly strong asset to the regime because he was a "practical" political and next to Nehru the most powerful influence in the congress party which is the government organization. I emphasize the term "practical" because that quality helped counter-balance the visionary views held by some of the old workers for independence.

It was Patel, by the way, who performed the Herculean task of bringing the same 600 princely states into the structure of the new Democracy. It required a man both tough and practical to take away the thrones of these descendants of long lines of rulers and make "em like it.

Now that Nehru has lost this beloved friend, he may call on another old-timer — Chakravarti Rajagopalachari (better known throughout the Indian peninsula as "C.R.") — to succeed Patel. "C.R." is 71 years old, and fought side by side with the late Mahatma Gandhi and Nehru in the nationalist movement. He is a lawyer and is one of the most highly respected men in all India. He is so well known that nobody calls him anything but "C.R."

"C.R." is a Brahmin, the highest caste of Hindu, and is intensely religious. However, his daughter married Gandhi's son, a Hindu of a lower caste. He has always been a champion of Hindu-Muslim good will. He was formerly governor general of India, and is now minister without portfolio in Nehru's government.

Another strong man among Nehru's captains — and a most interesting personality — is Dr. Ambedkar. He used to be the leader and champion of the millions of India's "untouchables," the Hindu outcasts who were so low as to be outside the caste system. These unfortunate were compelled to live in direst poverty apart from their "betters," and managed to exist by performing such lowly duties as emptying night slops for their masters.

I visited Dr. Ambedkar in his New Delhi home in '43 and found him a delightful gentleman. While born as an untouchable he attracted the attention of the late Gaekwar of Baroda, who had the young man educated in England, America and Germany. Then Ambedkar came back to fight for his people. Untouchability has been abolished.

at least in theory. The doctor is now minister for law in the cabinet.

To return to the Maharajah Jam Sahab of Navangar, he is one of the few Indian princes who early recognized the writing on the wall as meaning "finis" to the reigns of these potentates who had the power of life and death over their subjects, and amassed wealth beyond imagination. He took his demotion with a grin, surrendered his torrential income to the new government, and fitted himself successfully into the democratic regime.

The maharajah is now head of a great province, a general in the Indian army, member of the Indian delegation to the U. N., and one of Nehru's trusted confidants.

There are, of course, other strong men in Nehru's councils. However, I call attention to the above because we are likely to be hearing much more about them as Nehru apparently tries to guide his state to leadership of a troubled Asia.

3-Billion Civil Defense Bill Advances

Washington, Dec. 18 — (AP) — The house armed services committee approved unanimously today a master plan for a federal civil defense program expected to cost over $3,100,000,000 in the next three years.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said he hoped to get a house vote on it Wednesday.

The senate armed services committee approved a similar bill last Saturday. The senate is expected to consider it before recessing for the Christmas holidays.

The bill creates a federal civil defense administration to be headed by a $17,500-a-year administrator.

Former Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida now is chairman of a civilian defense program begun under a presidential order. Presumably, he is President Truman's choice to be administrator once the proposed legislation is enacted.

On that assumption, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sent a letter to the senate armed services committee today asking a chance to oppose senate approval of Caldwell in event for the post.

The NAACP described Caldwell as "the chief architect of a program of segregation in higher education which was designed to circumvent court decisions." This was apparently a reference to moves by some Southern States to establish regional institutions for higher education of Negroes.

Under both the house and senate bills, the civilian defense administrator would have sweeping powers to train civil defense workers, coordinate federal and state defense activities, and work with the states in building bomb shelters and fixing defense procedures in event of attack.

The government would be authorized to match state funds on a 50-50 basis for construction of public bomb shelters.

The house bill contains a ban against federal contributions to self-liquidating projects which might be used as bomb shelters. This would bar the use of federal emergency defense grants on

Governor to Ask Funds for Civil Defense

Little Rock, Dec. 18 — (AP) — Governor McMath said today he will ask the 1951 legislature for $54,500 appropriation to set up a civil defense department in Arkansas.

The proposed $25,000 a year budget for the organization includes a director at $6,000 a year, and an assistant at $4,000. The first year's budget also includes $4,500 for purchase of a car and office equipment.

Major Carl C. Martin of the Arkansas Military department now is serving as temporary head of the civil defense program in Arkansas, but the governor said it would be desirable to divorce that function from the military department.

The governor also told his news conference today that he does not believe a severance tax increase could get legislative approval. An increase in the tax for removing natural resources such as oil, gas, coal and timber, has been mentioned in speculation.

McMath said that he sees little chance of getting the three-fourths majority vote in the legislature which would be necessary to increase the tax.

The coach, a four wheeled carriage with springs and a roof, derives its name from Kocs, a town in Hungary where the first coach such projects as a proposed underground parking garage in San Francisco's civic center.

Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) said the senate bill provides for security investigations of key employees of the civil defense administration.

Boy, 19, Stabs Another for Bus Fare

Houston, Tex., Dec. 18 — (AP) — A 19-year-old youth was charged today with the fatal stabbing of a 14-year-old boy who, witnesses said, refused to give his slayer 15 cents the victim needed for his bus fare.

A charge of murder and two charges of attempted robbery by assault were filed against Fred G. Postel.

Manuel Zapata, 17, said he, David Rodriguez and a brother, Refugia Zapata, 14, were approached by a man who demanded their money. Manuel said he gave the man a nickel under threat but that Rodriguez refused to give the 15 cents needed for bus fare.

Manuel told officers the man struck Rodriguez. He said he and his brother fled. They found their companion slumped to the ground when they returned.

Rodriguez had five stab wounds. Police found a dime and a nickel in his pocket.

20 Per Cent Cut in Civilian Tin Ordered Feb. 1

Washington, Dec. 19 — (AP) — The government today ordered a 20 per cent cut in civilian use of tin effective Feb. 1.

The regulation, issued by the national production authority, will affect the production of tins, toothpaste and shaving cream tubes, jar and bottle lids and other closures, and a variety of other items including costume jewelry.

However, industry will be free to use substitutes, thinner coatings of tin, or other devices which will stretch the supply.

YOUNG HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT NOW ON FOOTBALL TEAM

HADACOL Supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin And Iron Which His System Lacked

Delmar B. Calloway, Box 151, Church Point, Louisiana, says maybe he isn't the best football center in the country, but he'll bet his pocketknife that there isn't a boy his age who has got the energy he has.

Yes, Delmar now feels great! ... and he says he has HADACOL to thank. Mrs. Calloway found that by giving her son, Delmar, HADACOL, his system overcame a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Delmar Calloway's own statement:

"I am 13 years old and I am in the 8th grade in the Church Point High School. Last summer I didn't have a bit of energy. I didn't want to ride my bike and I didn't want to play baseball. Mother tried everything to get me to eat a good meal — but I just didn't feel like eating. Food didn't just taste good and it took a long time to digest. Mother says I was underweight for my age. Then mother started giving me HADACOL. I know that in just a little while I started feeling a whole lot better. Now I am center on the football team. I like basketball and basketball, and I ride my bike every evening after school. Mother says she has never seen anyone with such a huge appetite. I like to take HADACOL. Mother says she is never going to let me be without HADACOL."

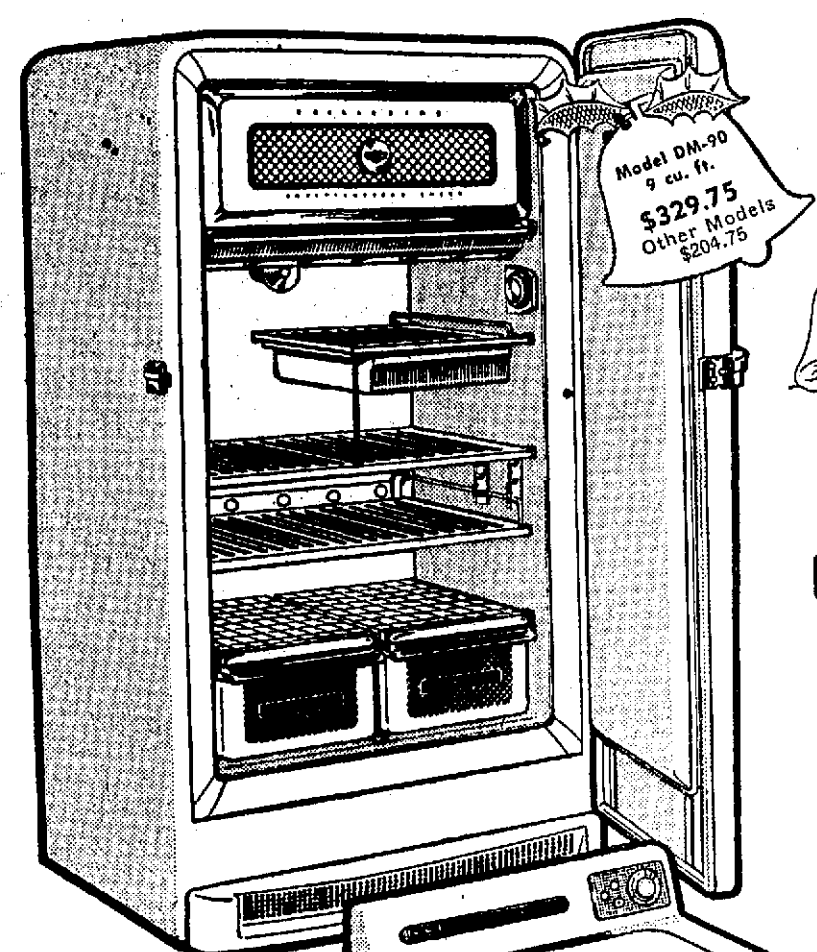

People of All Ages ... have been helped by HADACOL; yes, folks whose systems lacked Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin. The HADACOL formula is very effective for stomach distress, certain nervous disorders, insomnia due to upset stomach, vague aches and pains, and a general run-down condition when these troubles are caused by deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Let HADACOL Help You as it has helped thousands of others, if you suffer such deficiencies. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL doesn't help you, you will get your money back. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from the LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. (c) 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation —Adv.
